

#ADA30

The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) was signed into law on July 26, 1990 and we are celebrating 30 years of progress in access & inclusion throughout the year! Please find below a collection of disability and ADA resources with various intersectionality.

Articles

New York Times Disability Series

Essays, art and opinion exploring the lives of people living with disabilities.

Websites

Positive Exposure FRAME project

FRAME is aimed at medical professionals and is a web-based educational library and resource that changes how medical information is presented to health care professionals in training, clinicians, families and communities.

Short Videos

I'm not your inspiration, thank you very much

TedxSydney talk by Stella Young

In My Language

Mel Braggs, a disabled writer and artist, takes us through a series of interactions with amplified sounds of objects followed by a translation of these sounds (as the "native language" of this person with autism).

Podcasts

Alice Wong Disability Visibility Project

The Disability Visibility Project is an online community dedicated to creating, sharing, and amplifying disability media and culture.

"Curb Cuts," 99% Invisible"

"99% Invisible" is about all the thought that goes into the things we don't think about — the unnoticed architecture and design that shape our world.

Film and Television

"Crip Camp: A Disability Revolution" on Netflix

A groundbreaking summer camp galvanizes a group of teens with disabilities to help build a movement, forging a new path toward greater equality.